100 Yes. I was there. I can tell you the 150k or 250k estimates are very low. We had Penn. Ave from the Capitol to the Washington monument. AND the two parallel streets marching.

31 I am a Vet ,I have a buddy who was at the speech with a group of Wounded Warriors ,they were allowed to take a clear bag of needed Med's in for the hours on site .

They had to leave the bag at a Secret Service post near the stage ,after being there since 7am ,just after 11 he went to collect some meds & was talking to the extremely helpful SS guys, they had just received notification that a aerial survey had been done of the crowd in the immediate area & it was over 400K,that was not including the crowd that stretched all the way back to the Memorial etc.

Yeah... This was more like Woodstock crowds!

We left when flash bangs were going off, and we seen smoke tear gas balloons. We made it to the first set of steps, by the first statue, then I said, this is getting out of control, time to leave. That was at like 3:30....Knew it was gonna go to hell due to the instigators, who we watched on the big screen,, they mentioned were being bused in...That part of the day was pre-planned and the cops and security were involved and complicit.

It wasn't rocket science seeing the different types of attitudes within the people inside the crowd. We arrived at 9:00 am and witnessed bus's driven in, and the people released out of them were not Trump supporters. It isn't that difficult to see and get a clue as to who was instigating and who were supporters. Hope you didn't have a difficult time translating who the two were. I didn't.

 3 If they are serving their constituents in good faith, then they should have nothing to fear from the (non-deranged) people. Politicians are terrified right now because they're helping to orchestrate a controlled demolition of the USA and world economy to make way for an authoritarian global government and too many of us know about it.
 IMO the point of the 2A was to have the ability to form armed militias that had the weaponry/firepower to threaten a tyrannical government, foreign or domestic. Unfortunately, our 2A rights have been infringed upon to the point that we barely have access to semiautomatic firearms in some states, much less modern implements of war.

The 6th was never the moment. This was a reaction that happened after the boat had already left. The real work needed to be done by the legislatures of each state. Republicans controlled the legislatures in the fraudulent states in question. Having election laws changed prior to the election in 2020 and not going all in to challenge those unconstitutional and unauthorized changes? This just means that most Republicans wanted the Obama/Biden administration status quo.

I halfway agree---but it's easy to say "it wasn't the moment" now in retrospect knowing that Trump petered out and the patriots didn't do anything.

Leading up to the 6th, it WAS the moment. If you went back and read what every post was on this site (donald.win back then) it was just "everything relies on this" "our last hope" "trump has to come through for us" "lets kill commies" just over and over...let's not be like the left with revisionist history.

No, I'd say the constant white pills that the 'regulars' on this website swallow are crazy. There's only so much calling out the hypocrisy one can do...it serves no purpose when all of the important moments and dates passed with no action. Most people voted for Trump. He won. Your words fall into an echo chamber of other people agreeing, then nothing....nothing comes of it.

Carry on.

▼ I'm so proud of my brothers and sisters who showed up to peacefully protest and support President Trump. Love how the media outlets don't show the videos of a Trump supporters pulling down Antifa at the capitol building to stop the violence.

▼ What a beautiful day that was. Cold as fuck. Windy. Surrounded by patriots chanting and waving the flag. I'm proud of every single one of the pedes in that crowd. THIS is what unity looks like.

11 Sad thing is some pedes have gotten fired just for being there. In some states it is illegal to fire employees for their political affiliation or for activity protected by the first amendment.

I think us pedes need to contact our state attorneys general and try to get them to put out statements informing employers that they cannot fire people for peacefully protesting on Jan. 6.

10 F'ing THIS. 1 million peaceful happy patriots. Media dead set on villifying them for the actions of 1 tenth of 1 percent of that number...and those people either never attended Trump's speech...or left halfway through.

10 The other day I was looking at an old photo album from '83 where I was at an airshow watching the Thunderbirds with a USA sun-visor and an American flag tank-top on. Everyone else was dressed similarly. Sad to think that these people could be labeled terrorists now because they love their country.

6 Waving the American flag and singing the national anthem obviously make you a terrorist. That's also why planes made emergency landings for the patr—I mean terrorist passengers singing and/or wearing MAGA attire.

5 Lt, you are already on a list... and every time you post here, like something on Facebook, rent a patriotic movie on Netflix, buy a conservative book on Amazon, buy GSE stock or log on to gab or telegram your name moves higher in the list... the social credit system has been fully implemented just not rolled out yet... my suggestion, buy a copy of Gulag from a second hand store and get prepared to defend your neighbor when they start coming for us...

1 They can't do it, there are too many people to deal with. People do have to be smart, though, some supporters did go inside which hurt the cause.

▼ Imagine how great this country would be and how afraid the government would be of us if the other 45% was like this. Every easily controlled piece of shit that thinks its bad here should go to the countries that radical extremist terrorists Muslims flee from. They'll either come back grateful or dead.

▼ I was ready to follow orders from The President, and I think the majority of that crowd felt the same. We were ready for orders, and finally, all he told us to do was walk over to the capitol building and peacefully protest. The action was almost entirely a False Flag operation.

▼ I have my own thoughts re this too similar to yours. When he was speaking I Felt Like something altered the plan and Something was off, there was no one leading us. No stop the steal, women for Trump, and I believe something happened that we may never find out about, the truth about that day what really happened. I don't believe any of the stories of what happened inside.
